Newsy Notes From Nevils

VISITING AT DAWSON
Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crouch, of Dawson, where they will spend a few weeks with their parents during summer vacation, after which they will return to Register and Mr. Crouch will resume his studies at South Georgia Teachers College.

RECEIVES B. S. DEGREE
Miss Pearl Elizabeth Thomas, daughter of Mrs. W. C. Thomas, will receive a bachelor of science degree from Battle Creek College, Battle Creek, Michigan, Thursday, June 10. Miss Thomas is a member of the Ella Eaton College Club, honorary home economics organization on the campus, and a member of the Southern club, of which she was secretary and treasurer during her junior year.

BIRTHDAY PARTY
A lovely affair for the little tots was the party Tuesday afternoon given by Mrs. B. L. Smith at her home on Zetterow avenue in honor of her little daughter, Susan, who was celebrating her fourth birthday. Happy and fun was celebrating her second birthday. Outdoor games were enjoyed. Ice cream, cake and punch were served with candy balloons given as favors. Thirty guests were present.

G. A. MEETING
Miss Alice Brady was hostess Monday evening to members of the Girls' Auxiliary of the Baptist church at the home of her parents on Savannah avenue. Miss Theobald Woodcock as leader of the group was assisted by her sister, Mrs. Rackley, with the short business meeting and program. Dainty party refreshments were served by the mother of the hostess. Those present were Betty Hitt, Katherine Alice Smallwood, Hazel Hines Smallwood, Mary Frances Groover, Effie Lynn Waters, Helen Rowe, Katherine Rowe, Martha Jean Smith.

DAILY VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL IN PROGRESS

The daily vacation Bible school is new in progress with an enrollment of more than one hundred. The following reports are made by the children of the various departments:
The Junior department of the daily vacation Bible school invites all children from the ages of nine to twelve to come every morning from 9 to 11:30 to the Methodist church until June 18th. Our subject is "Living in our Community." We have been very fortunate in having Mrs. Pickett, Mrs. McCroan, Miss Margaret Moore and Miss Virginia Tomlinson to work with us. Roy Beaver and Mrs. S. J. Crouch help us with our music.
PRUELLA CROMARTIE.

CHILDREN, YOU DO NOT KNOW WHAT YOU ARE MISSING BY NOT COMING.

We are learning new songs and new games. We are studying about "Our Daily Bread" and are having a grand time. Come if you will; you will have a good time, too. In our whole primary department we have 44.

PRIMARY DEPARTMENT

The little folks in the beginners' department are having a big time coloring pictures, learning songs, and playing games. They bring flowers every morning for our tables. After their rest period the children enjoy their cold drinks and crackers served by the ladies of all the churches.

MIDDLEGROUND CLUB

PRESENT STUNT NIGHT

Don't miss the community stunt night at Middleground school, Friday night, June 11, at 8:30 o'clock.

FARM TO FARM

(By BYRON DYER, County Agent)

Kudza is not a pest for J. C. Quantelmann. He cultivates the legume and grazes it while it builds the soil.

J. C. Edenfield found a new use for one of the discarded dipping vats. He changed the vat at a small cash outlay and put it into service again for dipping his own cattle and hogs.

The new artistically designed picket fence around the yard of J. W. Warnock's home adds to the attractiveness of the landscaping. Ben Lee accomplished the same results around his home with a new wire fence.

Cap Mallard believes one way to make money on the farm is to keep busy during the winter. Cap kept a large number of hogs and cattle on feed. The project paid off enough for labor to warrant the farmer to continue feeding hogs through the busy cropping season.

When a farmer begins to immunize his livestock for certain diseases, the precautions should not be half done, according to C. B. Gay. Mr. Gay immunized his hogs for cholera and his cattle for black-leg. He then thought about the hazard of the price of rabies and in turn pass it on to his livestock. This thinking farmer immunized the dogs for hydrophobia at a cost of about 25 cents each.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Canady, in company with Mr. and Mrs. Algine Anderson, of Register, and their guest, Mrs. Paul Bartlett, of Atlanta, spent Friday at Savannah Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Chandler and two attractive little daughters, Arizona and Merle, of Red Hill Gables, Biloxi, Miss., were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chester.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Davis and daughter, Hazel, Nathan Proctor and children, Elizabeth and Jack, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Proctor spent two days last week on the river fishing.

Troy Dukes and his father, from Prichardville, S. C., were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dukes on Saturday. The older Mr. Dukes was suddenly stricken sick and had to remain for a few days.

Misses Inez and Jeanette Jolly, of Columbia, S. C., are visiting relatives here and elsewhere in the county for two weeks before going to their grandmother's in Nashville, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Martin and children, Lavada, Edine, Dewese and Bobby, spent Sunday at Daisy with Mrs. Martin's sister, Mrs. W. D. Sands. Another sister, Mrs. Tom Murff, who has been away for a long time, was there also for a family reunion.

Little Miss Anne and Priscilla Woodward, of Savannah, are with their aunt, Mrs. Frank Woodward, for several days while their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Radcliffe and family, are in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Radcliffe and family, of Clear View Crossing, Tenn., are spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. Claude Miles.

Misses Vivian and Almada Chessford, of Ellenwood, N. J., are visiting their cousin, Miss Virginia Sykes, before going to Redwood, Texas, for the summer.

Misses Cecilia Thorpe and Rita Fay Maynard, of Deland, Fla., are visiting their aunt, Mrs. Charles Newman, before going to Frankfort, Ky., for one month.

Misses Ila Jones and Mary Will Upton, have arrived from Saginaw, Mich., to spend some time with Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Hendricks and family. They will later be joined by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Upton.

Misses Ednell and Lita Fay North, of Montgomery, Ala., are spending the week with Misses Lois and Doris Rountree. From here they will be accompanied by Misses Rountree to Raleigh, N. C., and Rising Fawn, Va., for a visit before returning home the middle of July.

Employees bear continually in mind the objective "Safety First, Friendliness, Too."

Interesting is that of the $1,730,000 to be used for purchasing the new cars, $1,400,000 has been borrowed by the railroad—"with faith that the future of this territory justifies the action."

The total purchase will include besides the five steel air-conditioned passenger coaches, 800 freight cars of the most modern type and 3 express cars. In accordance with the Central of Georgia's policy of patronizing home industries wherever possible, the majority of the cars will be manufactured at plants in the railroad's own territory.

Discussing bargains offered the summer traveler by reason of air-conditioning and reduced fares, Mr. Pollard says:

"The lowest fares in railroad history prevail both in coaches and in sleeping cars. Travel by rail is economical, comfortable and above all safe. Any representative of the Central of Georgia will be pleased to quote rates and make reservations."

FEATURED THIS SUMMER AT ST. SIMONS

Carl Collins and the Professors Play Engagement at King and Prince

CONTRACT FOR ENTIRE SUMMER

Will Open Season June 12 and Continue Until Middle of September.

Carl Collins and His Professors announced the signing of a contract for a three months' engagement at the King and Prince Club on St. Simons Island to a George-Anne representative last week.

The orchestra, composed of musicians who received their start at this college, will open the season Saturday evening, June 12. Previous to this opening, they played for a dance there Saturday, June 6, returning a week later for the grand opening.

Known throughout the state for their popular arrangement of dance tunes in the swing manner, local lovers of good music are already making plans to journey down to St. Simons at various times during the summer.

The orchestra has been playing engagements in various cities near Statesboro and have never failed to please wherever they have appeared.

Featured with the orchestra as vocalist will be Cliff Garfield, from Savannah. Mr. Garfield has been singing with the orchestra during the past year.

The Bamboo Gardens, outdoor dance pavilion of the club, will be the scene of the dances for which the orchestra will play. In addition to playing at the dinner hour, they will be heard from 9 till 1 o'clock each Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Members of the orchestra show in the above group are: Lyle Williams, saxophone, Macon, Ga.; Marion Carpenter, saxophone, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.; James Townsend, saxophone, Dublin, Ga.; Len Lastinger, trumpet, Sparks, Ga.; Carol Beasley, trumpet, Statesboro; John Austin, trombone, Beaufort, N. C.; Frank Rushing, Statesboro; Mel Booth, bass, Adel, Ga.; Cliff Garfield, vocalist, Savannah, and Carl Collins, drum, Statesboro.

COLOR MAN HAS EARLY COTTON BLOOM
E. L. Cone, colored farmer on H. P. Womack's farm nine miles west of Statesboro, presented an early cotton bloom at the Times office Monday, among the first received this season. Cone states that he has eighty acres in cotton, and all of it in good condition. Incidentally this colored man is one of our new subscribers, having subscribed last week to one of our lady canvassers.

Nobody has been able to explain exactly why President Roosevelt, ahead in 46 of the 48 states in November, but we are expecting any evening to hear over the radio that it was because he ate Whoozie cracked wheat for breakfast.

Two Venerable Sisters Rest in Single Grave

An unusual incident was the burial Sunday afternoon, at the Beaman cemetery, five miles west of Statesboro, of two sisters, Mrs. I. E. Nesmith and Mrs. Vonia Johnson, in a single grave.

Mrs. Nesmith, aged 79 years, who lived near Brooklet, died Friday night at the hospital in Statesboro after an illness of several weeks.

Mrs. Johnson, aged 73, made her home in Atlanta. She died at an early hour Saturday morning in a hospital, where she had been carried only a few hours before.

Both bodies were carried Saturday night to the home of Paul Johnson, two miles from Statesboro on the Port of Atlanta highway, where the funeral services were held Sunday afternoon, following which interment was at the Beaman cemetery.

Mrs. Nesmith is survived by her husband and three children by a former marriage—Paul Akins and Mrs. Ed Tillman, of Atlanta, and Dock Akins, of Brooklet.

Mrs. Johnson is survived by three sons—Sam and Paul Johnson, Statesboro, and Grover Johnson, Atlanta.

NEVILS P. T. A. MEETING BE HELD THURSDAY

The regular meeting of the Nevils P. T. A. will be held in the high school auditorium Thursday afternoon, June 11, at 4:30 o'clock. Since there will not be a July meeting of this association we are expecting all members to be present. The time of the meeting has been changed to 4:30 o'clock. Be sure to come and be on time.

SUBSCRIBE OR RENEW NOW AND PLACE YOUR CANDIDATE IN THE LEAD

The Times' contest is nearing the end and we are now on the home stretch. The campaign will end one week from next Saturday and on that day contestants will be made richer to the extent of over $1,000 in the grand prizes and unlimited cash commissions to all non-prize winners and what a prize list that is, and especially so when laid right in the palm of one's hand! What a grand and glorious feeling it will be to know that you have beaten the entire field and taken off the biggest and the best prize—$500 in cash or a 1937 car.

Still Time to Win
A great deal can be accomplished during these last nine days by the willing workers. Long term subscriptions and long term extensions will bring the big votes that are needed to win. It is very easy to analyze a campaign of this kind if one will only sit down and do it. For instance, let us take a five-year subscription. One year subscription now counts 5,000 points and 20 of them count just 100 points. On the other hand one five-year subscription counts 100,000 points. Thus you will be able to see that one five-year subscription now is still equal to 20 one-year ones. Of course it may be a little harder to get five-year subscriptions, but it is worth the effort. There is a difference of $250 in the value of the first and second prizes. In other words the first prize winner will receive just twice as much as the second prize winner. Naturally every one wants to be first. This is natural in every kind of a competition race. Enough of the five-year subscriptions now can make any candidate a winner regardless of what has been done in this race up to this time. The reason is very simple. One five-year subscription overbalances so many of the one-year ones and therein lies the answer to the winning problem.

During the last period extensions or second payments will only count for the regular vote schedule in effect at that time.

Ward to the Wise
Don't think for a moment that you have enough votes to win the prize of your choice. Better by far to have a few million votes too many than to lose out by just a few thousand. You simply cannot have too many votes in a campaign of this kind. Your competitor is working hard and you must do the same to hold your present position in the list. Hard work will win, and the prizes offered in this contest are worth every effort put forth to win them. See your friends again and ask them to help you. We are sure many of them will only be too glad to assist you.

Show them you are in earnest and mean to win one of the best prizes in this race.

Secret of Winning
The winners in this contest will be determined by the number of points they have earned and not by the number of subscriptions or cash reported, and one of the big secrets of winning is that first prize which represents $500 of Uncle Sam's money is to have your share of the five-year subscriptions—because of their staggering vote value. This might prove to be very valuable information to you. It is worth some real thought, analysis and consideration.

Trotsky is being blamed now for the revolution in the Soviet Union. When reds fall out they seem to get as vindictive about it as other folks.

ESAU AND JACOB

The Sunday school lesson of a recent date had to do with two old people whose lives were torn with the differing habits and inclinations of their two sons. Rebecca loved her youngest son, Jacob, because he stayed at home and helped her with the housework—maybe he did need work and painting, and played the piano and fiddle and wore lace on his underclothes. Isaac loved his boy Esau, a he-man who spent his time fishing and hunting wild game.

The wild life has always from that day to the present had an appeal for Esau. In the early days of Bulloch county the settlers made their homes along the river banks where fishing and hunting made life a pleasure, and maybe contributed to the dinner table on occasions when company came. In this later day of efficiency and progress, the river roads have grown up in trees and the people have moved back into the flat country where they can raise goats and chickens and gather blackberries.

Thus it comes about that few people of the present generation are familiar with the intensely interesting things to be seen on a Sunday afternoon's ride along the old highway which was the original abode of the oldest settlers of Bulloch County. Of late it has proven increasingly interesting for us to spend a few hours traveling this almost forgotten road. This writing is to merely suggest to our readers that they, too, might find something which would stir their enthusiasm and appreciation of nature if they care to take the route which was ours on the last Sunday afternoon jaunt.

Start with us as we pour gas into the tank and turn the Pontiac's radiator eastward, three women and one other man in the car. The women are to tell us which way to go (which we reserve the right to ignore), and the man to tell us where we are when we get there—which he doesn't always know any better than we.

At the Sand Hill ford four miles east of Statesboro you don't turn to the right, but continue straight ahead on the old Oliver road. You follow this course till about eight miles from Statesboro you come to one of the old landmarks, the home of the late Grover Hagin. The three Hagin sisters still own and successfully cultivate the large farm. Turning sharp to the right you go in the direction of Bailey's mill. A half mile down the road you find that a high wind has blown a pine tree across the road, and that you can't go over or under or around. Then what? You back up for three hundred yards and take another road. With this new start you proceed along the same general direction for a mile or so till you turn again exactly to your right and you pass a lovely country home with a happy family on the front porch. The man who knows tells us that this is the home of Jim Lanier. Without knowing exactly where, we realize that we are headed toward a prosperous country, and it is only a short drive till we find ourselves crossing Mill creek and riding into the town of Leefield. We recognize familiar friendly faces—friends sitting in the shade in their Sunday array. A car by the roadside bears the emblem "Savannah Fire Department," and we wonder if Savannah is trying to take in all Leefield, or merely a part of her citizenship.

Just beyond Leefield you turn to the left and follow the highway in the direction of what our man friend tells us was formerly known as "Fig Eye." See plenty of pigs, to be sure; some chickens, and the finest tobacco and cotton and corn we have ever seen; saw also a large strawberry patch and a number of truck patches. At a place which we are told was the old Andrew Rimes home we turn sharply to the left and find ourselves driving through entirely new country till we pass what we are told is the Scott settlement, and we strike a road leading toward Stilton. We are not lost but we wonder where we are. Turning again to the right we pass a number of homes. In one of the yards we observe our friend Brian Williams, an erstwhile candidate for the legislature, and we know we are still among friends. Then we pass the J. L. Williams home, travel for a short distance and turn to the left. There looms up before us a scene which brings back memories to our minds. "That," says our male guide, "is the old home of Judge Martin." And we revel in the memory of the friendship and loyalty of that old friend who in the early days of our residence in Bulloch county meant so much to us. We lift our hats as we ride by, and our hearts still stand in respect to the memory of the "Noblest Roman of them all." Many friends we may have forgotten, but there is one whose loyalty and uprightness shall never cease to be a fond memory. A little way down the road we spy a group of churches—two of them to the left of the road, Lane's church, we recognize. Passing between the two buildings, a mark, we are told of the time when men and churches divided over politics, we see a long table under the trees to our right, and are comforted that we are not alone. The people of Lane's church had brought to a close a series of services in which perfect harmony prevailed and at the close of which a basket dinner had left its signs all over the grounds. Then we pass the Lee Smith home, the old Davis home, the home of the old Davis family, and on to the paved highway at the front yard at this latter place, which is evidence of continued Beasley profligacy, and a little further along we find ourselves riding into a place called highway leading eastward. "We are on the old River road," says our male guide, "and this is the old Mal Hagin place, and there is where Frank Hagin, the noted horsehothead, died recently." We pass what is pointed out as the old Peter Richardson place, and are headed toward Hubert. A couple of beautiful modern homes mark our entrance into the view of Hubert—the old Peckles home on the left and the Steve Richardson home on the right.

Crossing the highway we proceed past the Remer home (right); the present home of Fraser Wright; the Willie Wright old home, past the Elzie Martin home, past the U. M. Davis home, and on to the paved highway at the Holcomb Warnock place. It is now 6:30 o'clock and the sun is getting low, but the evening is in its prime for riding; so we turn eastward on the pavement and ride down to the home of R. L. Graham, where we strike the "Old Road" which brings us to the home of the John F. Brannen old home. It was on this stretch of road that we came to the home of our friend Scott Brannen, mentioned elsewhere. A little way off the road is an unpromising settlement. A dim, narrow road leads up to the very door of the house, and a cedar tree whose body is three feet in diameter, under the shade of the tree is the pump with water ready to flow at the movement of the handle; in the yard are growing blackberries. Friend Brannen comes out; he tells us about the house, standing there for more than a hundred years; his mother lived with him there till her death some thirty-five years ago; he comes to Statesboro about every two weeks; shops some by mail, and enjoys good health—only bad weather made him uncomfortable at the moment we were there, though he still seemed cheerful. We've tarried till almost dark, so we head for home. Past the Groover settlement, where the late Dan R. Groover, S. C. Groover and their father, S. E. Groover, contributed a half century ago to the important history of Bulloch county; past the John B. Akins home; the Boyd home, where the late R. Simmons began his family late a century ago; past the Hendrix settlement; past the old Mikel home, into Brooklet and home. It's now 7:50, and church services are beginning at 8 o'clock. Shall we eat supper and miss church, or attend church and let supper wait? What would you do?

Take this trip some time if you want to see an interesting part of Bulloch county.

During the World War we had government officials who drew only a dollar a year. Now we have government officials who can spend a billion dollars a year.

SEATED TEA
A delightful affair was the seated tea Tuesday afternoon given by Mrs. Fred T. Lanier and Mrs. C. Z. Donaldson at the lovely home of Mrs. Lanier on Zetterow avenue, at which they entertained a number of their neighbors. A medley of summer flowers gave added charm to the spacious rooms. They served a variety of sandwiches and punch.

SWIMMING PARTY

Mrs. Hinton Booth entertained delightfully Monday afternoon at the swimming pool honoring her granddaughter, Almarita Johnston, of Swainsboro, who was celebrating her fourth birthday. Refreshments were served at the City Drug store. In the party were Almarita Johnston, Jimmy Johnston, Johnnie Carol Vansant, Margaret Vansant, Susan Smith, Happy Smith, Harold DeLoach, Dorothy Flanders, Donald Flanders and Gibson Johnston.

MRS. WOODCOCK ENTERTAINS

Mrs. W. H. Woodcock entertained at a delightful party Wednesday evening at her home on Oliff street, honoring her son, Gordon Woodcock, who has just returned from the Teachers College high school graduation exercises which were held in Washington, D. C., at which time he received his diploma. H. J. McCormick had charge of the games which were followed by a dance. Mrs. Woodcock was assisted by her daughters, Miss Theobald Woodcock and Mrs. L. C. Rackley, in planning the party. Invited were members of the graduating class and a number of student faculty.

NEW CARS AND IMPROVED
RAILROAD SERVICE

The Central of Georgia is purchasing $1,750,000 of new freight and passenger cars for the improvement of its service to the shipping and traveling public. Delivery of the new equipment will start immediately and will be completed during the summer.

Included in the purchase are five steel air-conditioned coaches, which added to similarly equipped cars already in service, will give the benefit of this great modern improvement to coach passengers on main line trains. All sleeping cars are air-conditioned and the famous through trains between Florida and the West—the Seminole, Dixie Flyer, Dixie Limited, Flamingo and Southland—are air-conditioned throughout.

The lowest fares in railroad history prevail both in coaches and sleeping cars. Travel by rail is economical, comfortable and above all safe. Any representative of the Central of Georgia will be pleased to quote rates and make reservations. Employees bear continually in mind the objective, "Safety First, Friendliness, too."

The Central of Georgia's latest purchase also includes 600 freight cars and 3 express cars, so that all branches of rail service may be fully equipped to meet the public's needs. Of the $1,750,000 expended the Receiver has borrowed $1,500,000, with faith that the future of this territory justifies the action.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

H. D. POLLARD, Receiver.

Wore Prince Alberts

In the "fifty nineties," most United States senators wore Prince Alberts. The frock coat was a symbol of statesmanship and a beard was the mark of a man of maturity and substance.

Frank Collins, 22-year-old son of B. L. Collins of Cobbtown, died in the Statesboro hospital early Saturday morning as a result of injuries sustained in an automobile wreck on the highway near Register shortly after midnight Friday night. Returning to his home at Cobbtown the young man ran off the paved highway just beyond the Lotts Creek bridge. His car was overturned and he received injuries which resulted in his death. Another young man in the car with him escaped serious injury.

Thfts From Rail Shipments Are Off Atlanta, Ga., June 7 (GPs).—Claims paid in 1936 by the railroads of the United States and Canada as a result of theft of freight in transit amounted to $688,792, the smallest amount on record for any year, according to figures just submitted to Atlanta railroad executives by the Association of American Railroads.

Claims were eighteen per cent less than in 1935 and only an average of 1.8 cents had been paid for each car loaded, it was reported.

Credit for the decrease in thefts from railroad shipments was credited largely to the efficient police organizations which have been established by the railroads and the vigilance of those organizations in guarding the billions of dollars' worth of freight shipped annually over the rail lines.

With all these sit-down strikes, why doesn't some enterprising clothing maker put out a line of work pants with double reinforced seats?

Less Monthly Discomfort Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, run-down condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CARDUI, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.

Naturally there is less discomfort from monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated. CARDUI is graded by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

It has been ruled, too, that the surname Ataturk, "father of the Turks," which has been conferred by the nation on the Ghad, shall not be adopted by anyone. It is to be sacrosanct, and even names resembling it are to be avoided.

The first comer to a registry office with a proposed surname has the right to it. A later comer may not buy it from him. If a later comer proposes the same name, he must show a suffix meaning "Little" or "Big," or some other distinctive addition.

Federal Project Builds Cheap Homes for Workers Washington.—Homes for this low-income workers who can afford to pay an average of $12.50 a month are being erected in 23 localities.

Construction, the PWA's substantial housing division said, has been started on 1,100 low-cost homes, each with from one to thirty acres of land in thirty states.

The projects are financed from a $25,000,000 allotment of which $5,000,000 has been spent in the purchase of sites and the starting of building.

The homes, including land and construction costs, cost between $2,000 and $4,000. The buyer has 30 years in which to pay at 3 per cent interest. The average cost to the buyer is $12.50 per month. This includes the interest. No down payment is required.

Two Eclipses This Year Delaware, Ohio.—Two eclipses—one of the sun and the other of the moon—will be visible to the greater part of the United States in 1935, figures given by Dr. N. R. Bohrovich, director of Ohio Wesleyan University's Perkins observatory show.

Advocate Hobbies Raleigh, N. C.—The happiest people in the world are those with hobbies, Dr. Ed Heggeboth, of the University of North Carolina insists.

Infant Swallows Strychnine; Lives Sydney, N. S. W.—The eighteen-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn Ross swallowed 32 tablets containing strychnine and survived. She got them from a cabinet where they had been placed after being prescribed for a member of the household. The mother said she was one tablet every eight hours. The baby was rushed to hospital, and a stomach pump used. Doctors thought she could not live, but she did.

LOWEST PRICE EVER ON A BUICK 4-DOOR SEDAN! GENERAL MOTORS TERMS TO SUIT YOUR IDEAS!

There's a lot more in this picture than meets the eye, though the eye has plenty to sparkle about in the stunning style of this spirited Buick car.

What you don't see here is the lift that's yours when you touch off the flashing power of Buick's valve-in-head straight-eight engine and go streaming off across the map.

What you don't see is the solid, steady feel of Buick—the firm stability that holds you on the line without weave or sway or wander on straightaways or on the curves.

What you don't see is the assurance you'll know once you step on Buick's tiptoe brakes and see how surely and safely they make you master of its power.

We can't picture here the security that's yours in a body of steel-fused-to-steel—with floor, roof, side panels, cowl all welded into one stout unit of protective metal.

And only time can tell you how big is your money's worth in Buick—all steel and two yards wide, a big package that's your one best bet of the field when you add the superb action that gives its metals life.

All we can do is show you how a Buick looks—and handsome as this gallant traveler is, remind you that its good looks are literally the least of what it has to offer. Go try a Buick now!

It's Buick again!

FRENCH ROADS SEEK SPEED; USE DIESELS

Oil-Electric Power Is Proven Better Than Steam.

Paris—After a year's experimentation with a locomotive operated by a Diesel engine driving an electric generator, the Paris-Lyon-Mediterranean railroad, which operates trains over the longest runs in France, has decided to replace steam locomotives by Diesel-electric units on its principal lines instead of continuing the more expensive project of electrifying the system.

The chief advantage of the new engine is that it can carry fuel for the entire trip. The Diesel engine, which will make Paris-Marseille haul, which will make nine-hour service feasible between the capital and France's chief Mediterranean port.

Although the crack Cote d'Azur express, an extra-fast train carrying nothing but pullmans, makes it in nine hours and a quarter, ordinary express trains take about thirteen hours, and a half, and rapids sometimes eleven hours. With the new locomotive, the connection between Paris and Nice would be made in less than ten hours.

The steam locomotives now in service can carry fuel for only two hours, so that there have to be five stops to change the locomotives on the Paris-Marseille service as it is now organized.

The Diesel-electric locomotive as developed by the P. L. M. is 50 feet long, weighs 100 tons, and can pull a useful load of 85 tons at a speed of more than 10 miles an hour.

Bureaus are now working on a more powerful model which will be used to effect the Paris-Nice ten-hour trip. It will pull a tender containing a baggage car, and three pullman-type coaches, all equipped according to the most modern principles.

The P. L. M. is interested in the new type of train for another reason—it operates lines also in north Africa where water is scarce. The company proposes, therefore, to put the new units into general service on its Algerian lines, where the original locomotive which has been used for tests is already in regular service.

Turks Picking Surnames Must Shun Duplications Ankara.—The Turks have now received from the national assembly the regulations which are to govern their choice of surnames.

To prevent unnecessary duplications in surnames, it has been ruled that no two families within a neighborhood may adopt the same name.

Another restriction is that no one may henceforth adopt names ending in "er" or "ian," which are terms in common use among the Greek or Armenian families. This will mean that Greek and Armenian families in Turkey will be assimilated more easily to the population.

It has been ruled, too, that the surname Ataturk, "father of the Turks," which has been conferred by the nation on the Ghad, shall not be adopted by anyone. It is to be sacrosanct, and even names resembling it are to be avoided.

The first comer to a registry office with a proposed surname has the right to it. A later comer may not buy it from him. If a later comer proposes the same name, he must show a suffix meaning "Little" or "Big," or some other distinctive addition.

Federal Project Builds Cheap Homes for Workers Washington.—Homes for this low-income workers who can afford to pay an average of $12.50 a month are being erected in 23 localities.

Construction, the PWA's substantial housing division said, has been started on 1,100 low-cost homes, each with from one to thirty acres of land in thirty states.

The projects are financed from a $25,000,000 allotment of which $5,000,000 has been spent in the purchase of sites and the starting of building.

The homes, including land and construction costs, cost between $2,000 and $4,000. The buyer has 30 years in which to pay at 3 per cent interest. The average cost to the buyer is $12.50 per month. This includes the interest. No down payment is required.

Two Eclipses This Year Delaware, Ohio.—Two eclipses—one of the sun and the other of the moon—will be visible to the greater part of the United States in 1935, figures given by Dr. N. R. Bohrovich, director of Ohio Wesleyan University's Perkins observatory show.

Infant Swallows Strychnine; Lives Sydney, N. S. W.—The eighteen-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn Ross swallowed 32 tablets containing strychnine and survived. She got them from a cabinet where they had been placed after being prescribed for a member of the household. The mother said she was one tablet every eight hours. The baby was rushed to hospital, and a stomach pump used. Doctors thought she could not live, but she did.

URGE EMPLOYERS TO RETURN CARDS

All Workers Should Be Given Their Benefit Account Numbers.

Employers having in their possession social security account numbers were advised today by J. W. Overstreet Jr., field representative in charge of the Savannah office of the social security board, that the cards should be turned over promptly to the employees to whom they belong.

The account number cards, Mr. Overstreet emphasized, are the property of workers to whom they were issued, and the cards should be at all times in the possession of such workers. Furthermore, the workers are cautioned to preserve them carefully.

Instances in which the cards are being retained by employers have been brought to his attention, Mr. Overstreet said. This has happened, it is explained, in cases where employers held the cards sent them by postoffice for distribution to employees. It has also occurred in cases where new employees have given their cards to employers to be used in the account numbers could be recorded on the employers' records. In some of these instances, Mr. Overstreet said, employers have not known what to do with the cards.

In those cases, and in all others where account number cards are given to employers, Mr. Overstreet explained that they should be turned over to workers promptly.

Mr. Overstreet pointed out that employees, in reporting their social security account numbers to employers, need not give their account cards to employers. The only employment is that workers furnish employers account numbers—not the cards.

It is all right to follow the advice of the optimist to keep your chin up, but don't stick it out too far.

Masters or Servants? (By LESTER S. TRIMBLE, Executive Vice-President and Managing Director of Chamber of Commerce.)

She cares not for riches, Nor for the power and gold—The fact of the matter is, She is six months old.

Only those other too young or too feeble-minded to care are indifferent to the power and use of money. What folks will do to get it, and what they spend it for, tells volumes about their natures. Only about ninety per cent of men's worries are about money. The other ten concerns women.

Headache cures and roadies take about $20,000,000 a year in this country, or about 65¢ per person. By staying sober much of this could be used for something else. Amusements take a large slice of the national income, amounting to about $11.50 per person or one and one-half billions per annum. For medical attention we spend nearly $55.46 each year on the average. There are many things that people want more than money, judging by what is bought with it.

The Chinese want their suacans well attended, therefore pay a dime to each of these present. That is a valuable hint, and might be used to good advantage ever here.

Money serves a multitude of purposes beyond its intended use. A desperate prisoner once used his own blood to write a plea for help on a bank-note before he spent it. It circulated in the world as a ransom note.

There are about fifty different languages spoken in this country, but money talks the plainest of them all, and all users of the fifty can understand the language. In talking, money is the loudest, the loudest it is, the loudest it speaks. The only way to get to hear it talk is by eavesdropping.

The depression taught everybody a lot about the power of money. In one colored church, a rule was passed that no member could take up a collection, and nothing has been so instrumental in bringing a man and his wife's relatives nearer together than this same depression.

A rich man will say only the poor know real happiness, but any of the poor will be found willing to swap some of their happiness for a little cash, and so it goes. One wise man remarked that poverty is no disgrace, but that is all that can be said in its favor. Money works hard for a stern master, but leads the wedding a merry chase. "A fool and his money are soon parted," is an old but true saying, but it is unwise to use it as someone is apt to ask, "What are you?"

Food, clothing and the other items you use every day make up the Cost of Living average, as shown in the upper line of this chart. It's 12 per cent HIGHER than before the war. In 1913, trace the lower line and see the downward trend of electricity prices paid by homes served by this Company in the same period. When you hear arguments in favor of government ownership of the electric industry, remember this chart. Have taxes, postage rates and other government costs gone down, down, DOWN like this?

COST OF LIVING (IN ADVANCE)

HOME ELECTRIC RATES (GAPFORD CO.)

If you're a woman with a budget to manage—you know, better than anyone else, that prices are up and on the rise. And you know, too, that you can't buy twice as much food, twice as much clothing, or twice as much of almost anything else today as you could buy in 1928, before "depression" became a household word.

But Georgia homes today CAN, and DO, get twice as much electricity for their money as they got in 1928.

Here's the proof—$3.34 a month is the average electric bill paid by homes served by this Company. In 1928, that amount of money would have bought you 41 kilowatt hours of electricity (if you lived in Atlanta, which had the lowest electric rates in Georgia. In other towns, with their higher rates, it would not have bought as much).

But today, $3.34 buys 83 kilowatt hours on the new "inducement" rate, and the same big value for your money is available wherever this Company's lines run—in cities, towns, villages, crossroads settlements and on the farms.

From 41 kilowatt hours in 1928 to 83 kilowatt hours today—more than TWICE AS MUCH for the same amount of money—that is what makes electricity the biggest bargain you can buy.

Into a depression and out of it, whether other prices were coming down or going up, the price of electric service has gone down, down, DOWN!

FORD "60" OWNERS REPORT

22-27 MILES PER GALLON

THE 60-horsepower Ford V-8 is writing remarkable mileage records on American roads. Private owners and fleet operators alike report averages of from 22 to 27 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

You can fill the tank of your Ford "60" and drive all day—300 to 400 miles—without stopping again for fuel. Besides costing less to run than any Ford car ever built, it sells at the lowest Ford price in years. That's double economy!

The "60" delivers V-8 smoothness and quiet at speeds up to 70 miles an hour. It is built into the same roomy body as the famous "85"—with the same modern features of comfort and dependability that make the 1937 Ford V-8 unquestionably THE QUALITY CAR IN THE LOW-PRICE FIELD.

LIFE'S HANDICAPS

(By BASCOM ANTHONY, in Macon Telegraph)

Everybody carries a handicap of some sort. There is always an absent good or a present evil. Few people have a perfectly sound body. Fewer still escape having one or two scrambled spots in their brains. Everybody is at one with the devil at some point in their character. All men are born with a streak of dog in them. Sometimes it's yellow dog at that. For some years it has been mainly hound, judging from the howling that's in the air. If it's not one handicap, it's two and sometimes more.

There are some angles of this I'll not touch upon but it's enough to say that just as people must have enough water in which to drown before they can learn how to swim, so also are our difficulties to be turned to a good account before we really learn how to live. Stumbling blocks rightly arranged become steps upon which to climb to higher things. The story of the world is the triumph of the human will over handicaps.

By this I do not mean simply the great geniuses like a deaf musician writing melodies that rival the songs of the skies and yet for him these melodies do not exist except in his own soul, which by the by is the only place real things ever exist. All else are but echoes. Nor do I mean a thing or two about the blind man who is blindfolded Milton "shut up in perpetual darkness yet visioning a pageantry that only angels were permitted to see. I mean the common everyday folks in the ordinary walks of life, and I know them by the hundreds who manage to live happily in spite of their handicaps. Maybe I ought to have said lived triumphantly by virtue of overcoming their handicaps.

When we refuse to give up because of our handicaps life has a way of helping us to turn them into a blessing that richly compensates us. Sometimes the good God drops in something extra that under other conditions might have been denied us so as to make it work side by side with our handicaps for our happiness and good. A good driver knows how to make his team work together and not one at a time. And God is wiser and better than they.

Recently in Macon I saw a sight that was pitiful enough to provoke great sympathy and yet it filled me with admiration. I stood and watched with the hat of my soul lifted in honor and appreciation. It was a blind negro whose eyes looked almost milky white, sitting on the curb at the corner of the postoffice yard. He was touching softly the strings of his guitar as sang with a merry lilt, "Keep On a Singin'." After a few words of conversation and good-will with him I left a small coin and went away from there thinking how much bigger and wiser and better that blind negro was than lots of old curmudgeons with whom I meet daily who have no such handicaps. It is said to be well for us that when life hands us a lemon to have on hand the ingredients to fashion it into a pie, and such ingredients are not for sale in the market place. They are home made.

Even the folks in Heaven got there "through great tribulations." There is no easy route anywhere except to the dogs and the devil. The highest authority says there is a broad way leading to the devil and a wide gate at the far end of it. The reason why "many go in thereat" is because it's easy. That road has few handicaps and many accessories.

"There is no royal road to learning or to any other worthwhile thing. There's always a lion down the road towards worthy ends. That's where character is made and manhood built in meeting and overcoming these difficulties and handicaps.

About the most serious handicap life is to be born with a silver spoon in your mouth and have indulgent parents. Such people have small chance to develop real strength—even pernicious strength. It's not an accident that the dictators in Russia, Germany, Italy and Cuba all came up from the common people. I regard them as a direful brood. They received their education in the school of hard knocks. They developed their strength in overcoming handicaps. Their condemnation is that they ignore nature's eternal law teaching that like produces like, forces create forces, tyranny breeds tyranny, and strife makes yet more strife. They are trying to create government whose law is final in all things. They seek to make a finite thing infinite. The
